Press Release | AqVida GmbH

NOVEMBER 02, 2015

Hamburg, Germany:– Innovative German oncology generics specialist AqVida was able to use the landmark CPhI Madrid expo to share key messages about its products and activities.

AqVida hosted the German-based not-for-profit organization Krebsallianz, which supports cancer patients in developing countries with surplus products donated by pharmaceutical sponsors. AqVida has been an active Krebsallianz supporter since 2012 and donated products with a market value of a few hundred-thousand Euro.

Krebsallianz shared AqVida's stand at CPhI for a reception during the show during which it was able to spread its message to other key companies.

A video highlighting Krebsallianz's collaboration is available now at <https://youtu.be/nogz45SpzQk>

Onco-generic announcements

The Hamburg-based company, which is dedicated to development, registration, manufacturing and licensing/distribution of oncology generics, used CPhI 2015 to introduce its New Generic products.

It announced that Imatinib, a generic version of Gleevec /Glivec, will receive marketing authorization in Germany as well as other European territories soon, ready to go to market next year, after patent expiry. It also announced that Sunitinib is now in advanced development, targeting to apply marketing authorisations within 2016, ready to launch in Europe after patent expiry in 2021 and to support commercial supplies into markets where no patent is applying.

Zero loss facility

There was great interest among many visitors about the company's new "Zero Loss" facility to manufacture oncology generics and antibody drug conjugates (ADCs). The facility is a major innovation for the pharma industry, using totally robotic controlled filling processes for parenteral cytotoxics.

"CPhI 2015 was really successful for us," commented AqVida CEO and founder Wolfgang Heinze.

“We made many new and interesting contacts and consolidated many of our established partner relationships.”

“Many of our conversations at the show were about our current product portfolio of onco-generics, but there was also great interest in our new developments like Imatinib and Sunitinib, which will both fill significant gaps in the market.”

“CPhI is a key platform in our field of oncology and we are looking forward to attending next year’s show in Barcelona, where we will again be an exhibitor,” Mr. Heinze added.
