Efficiency in import and export practices

As Taiwan is a net exporter, CDMOs based in Taiwan will have optimized import and export practices through expertise and experience.

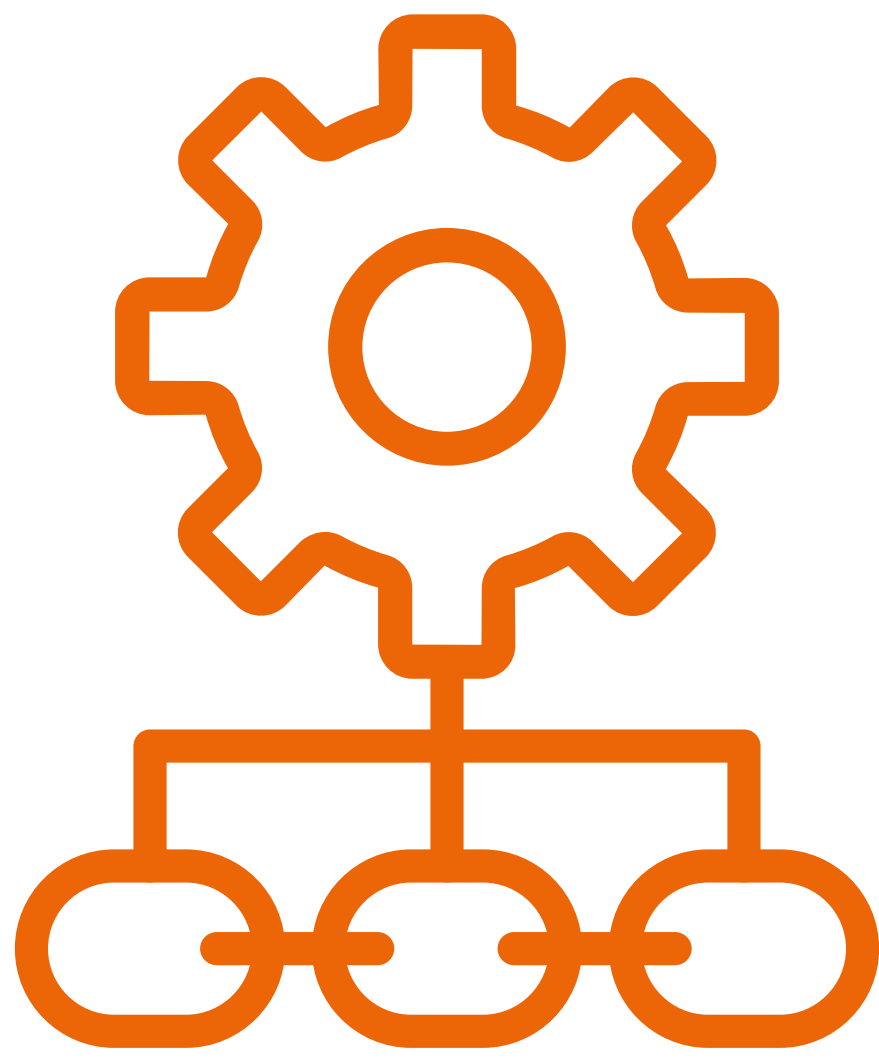

Having strong relationships with customs and regulatory authorities and an intimate knowledge of the rules and regulations, we expedite delivery timelines to meet your needs.

Commitment to global quality

As a global organization based in Taiwan and the US, we recognize that a culture built on quality is integral to meeting the rigorous standards of different markets.

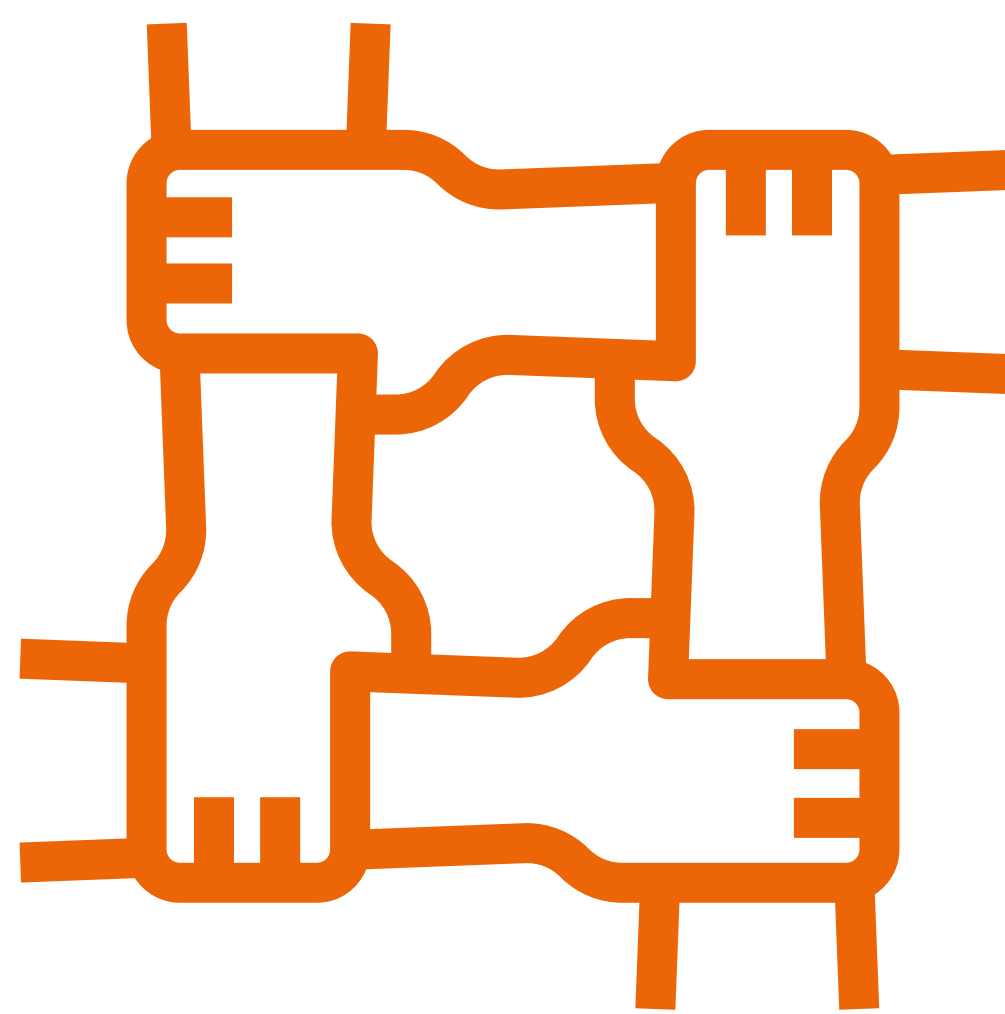

Our dedication to quality has led to successful inspections by the Taiwan FDA at our biologics site, as well as multiple qualified-person audits and client audits.

Supply chain security

As an industrial hub for many different types of businesses, Taiwan fosters the formation of friendly industrial clusters and supports the development of strong supply chains.

Leveraging historical relationships with local suppliers, we minimize delays and ensure supply continuity.

Strong company culture

Our success is built on a strong company culture, inspiring fierce loyalty with low staff turnover, helping us ensure critical team consistency.

Our teams build strong relationships, sharing knowledge to elevate projects and deliver your therapeutic to clinical and commercial phases quickly.

Highly educated talent pool

Leveraging the region's education and training resources, we've built a strong talent pool with dual-language skills.

By harnessing the expertise of personnel returning from overseas after training in the US and the EU, we can provide an international business perspective that helps you navigate a range of diverse markets.

Cost advantages

Lower labor costs compared with the US and the EU combined with a strong quality culture mean organizations based in Taiwan can pass on cost efficiencies to customers without impacting quality.

Our Taiwan-based manufacturing facilities allow us to provide expert execution, on-time delivery, quality culture and cost advantages that keep our clients coming back time and time again.
